Studying the Old Testament

Autumn 2015

The biblical scholar John Rogerson has said 'on any showing the Old Testament is a remarkable collection of books produced by a remarkable group of people'.

The course aims to enable you to develop a deeper knowledge and understanding of the story, literature and theology of the Old Testament and give you the skills to handle the different texts and apply them to life today.

In so doing we will explore questions such as:

- Who wrote the Old Testament and when?
- What does the Old Testament tell us about God and his relationship with humanity?
- How might I use the text to respond to difficult life questions today?

The Course is taught over 12 weeks, in 2 hour sessions, by Tutors experienced in Old Testament study. Sessions are a mixture of taught input from the Tutor, group discussion and exercises. You may be asked to do some preparatory reading or thinking before each session.

Running as part of the Higher Education Certificate in Theology, Mission and Ministry, the course has two pieces of assessment, one which focuses on a specific text and the other on a wider biblical theme, such as justice, creation or covenant. Students who would like to take the module for credit will need to submit work for assessment.

If you have further questions or would like to discuss any aspect of course, please contact the School of Ministry Director - Lynn Comer (details overleaf) or the Hub Academic Tutor.
