Our Hope for 2017:

THY KINGDOM COME

- Between 25th May – 4th June people will be gathering to pray for the empowering of the Holy Spirit.
- This is a global wave of prayer and every country is invited to participate.

The three aims of Thy Kingdom Come

THY KINGDOM COME

- For all Christians to deepen their relationship with Jesus,
- That we may have confidence to share our faith,
- That all may respond to the call of Jesus Christ to follow Him

Through Beacon Events

THY KINGDOM COME

Events held to gather, ignite and inspire worship and prayer for a generation to rise up with a fresh passion and confidence to share their faith with others.

In addition to events in cathedrals across the UK, hundreds of other Beacons will be hosted locally, regionally and nationally across all denominations and around the world.

#Pledge2Pray call to action

THY KINGDOM COME

- We know that Archbishop Justin's most popular posts on social media are when he is open and honest
- Last year he wrote this, which became one of his most liked and shared posts
- Through this, we aim to encourage others to share their faith, and #Pledge2Pray with God's world-wide family that the Holy Spirit will help them to be a witness for Jesus Christ.

The Archbishop of Canterbury

People often ask me why I'm a Christian. Here's what I tell them.

I'm a Christian because Jesus Christ found me and called me, around 40 years ago. I'm a Christian because it makes sense to me, because Jesus rose from the dead - he conquered death and sin and suffering.

I'm a Christian because in Jesus I see the God who didn't say, "This is how you lot have got to behave, and I'm going to watch you and judge you." Instead he came alongside us and lived in the middle of the absolute foulest mess, and died unjustly young in great agony, and bore all that was wrong in this world on his shoulders.
