

The eight rectangular pools outside Hull Minster are believed to be the first of their kind in the UK. Each one contains water to a depth of just 2mm, and when activated they create rippling wave patterns reflecting the architecture of the historic buildings surrounding the square.

Before

After

After

After