

INTRODUCTORY GUIDANCE FOR FOUNDATION GOVERNORS

Stained glass window at Riston CE VC Primary School

*in Church of England maintained schools and academies in the

September 2023

This guidance is intended to introduce you to the role of foundation governor and to signpost you to where you can find further help and support as you develop in the role. It is supplemented by our training programme for governors.

For the purposes of this guidance “Foundation Governor” should be read as meaning a foundation governor of a maintained school or a “foundation local governor” in an academy and “Governing Body” should be read as meaning the governing body of a maintained school or the local governing body/committee of an academy.

Welcome...

Welcome from our Director of Education

Andrew Smith, Diocesan Director of Education

Welcome to the family of Church of England Foundation Governors in the Diocese of York. Thank you for your commitment to taking on this important role in the life of a Church school.

The Church of England educates one million children and young people nationally, spread across more than 4,700 schools and academies. Here in the Diocese of York, there are over 120 Church of England schools. The vast majority are primaries but there are also four secondaries and a handful of infant and junior schools: together these schools serve over 21,000 pupils. The Diocese has a rich and varied educational landscape, with both rural and urban contexts, and some of the most deprived parishes within England: our schools and academies serve all these communities. The largest secondary school has over 1800 students, our smallest primary 11, and we have everything in between. Whatever your school looks like, the Diocesan Board of Education (YDBE), supported by the Diocesan Education Team, is here to support you.

The YDBE is the statutory body with responsibility for the promotion of education in the Diocese consistent with the faith and practice of the Church of England, including the promotion of religious education and worship in schools. In carrying out its work, the YDBE is guided by its vision, through which it seeks to build flourishing communities in its schools, parishes and homes, where every child, young person and those who care for them has a transforming encounter with the Christian faith and the person of Jesus Christ. Specifically in the school context, the YDBE's vision is to create flourishing Church school communities, committed to providing education of the highest quality that is deeply Christian and seeks to serve the common good for their own locality.

The vision of the York Diocesan Board of Education (YDBE) is that it seeks to build flourishing communities in its schools, parishes and homes where every child, young person and those who care for them has a transforming encounter with the Christian faith and the person of Jesus Christ.

The vision of the YDBE is aligned with:

- The Diocese of York's vision, Living Christ's Story. In our Church schools, it challenges us to reflect on what it means for Christians to be to be more like Christ in the way people live their lives. This may be through adopting a Rhythm of Life that includes aspects of prayer, worship, love for one another, generosity, supporting community and having periods of rest.
- The Church of England's vision for education, which is outlined in the document published by the Church of England Education Office, "Deeply Christian, Serving the Common Good." Within it, the Church affirms its commitment to education and to the flourishing of all, described as "promoting educational excellence everywhere and for everyone and bringing life in all its fullness."
- Growing Faith, which identifies three areas of focus: the Church, the school and the household. There is a national commitment to achieve a significant culture change within the Church, so that every aspect of mission and ministry is seen through the lens of a child and young person. The desire of the Church of England is to become younger and more diverse: Growing Faith is part of this aspiration.

It is within this context that the YDBE and the Diocesan Education Team works with all its schools: working in partnership with Church schools to support them in providing high quality education, infused with and inspired by each school's theologically rooted Christian vision.

Thank you for volunteering to be a Foundation Governor and for the work that you do to help lead and support your Church school. I hope you find this guidance useful as you start on your journey. It is together that we will build flourishing communities in our schools, parishes and homes here in the Diocese of York.

The apostle Paul writing in his letter to the Colossians encourages the Church to be 'abounding in thanksgiving' (Col 2:7) and 'whatever you do, in word or deed, do everything in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God (Col 3:17). The YDBE's vision for children and young people is rooted in God's purposes and is thankful for what God has done in the past and for what, by God's grace, is to come within the Diocese of York.

Foundation Governors

“Foundation Governors have a vital role in holding some essential parts of our mission together: providing a first-class experience for the children in our schools and academies, maintaining contact with parents, supporting headteachers and staff, ensuring that the assets we have for education are used wisely, and seeing all this as part of our shared vision in the Diocese of York to grown in Christ-likeness, commitment, partnership and numbers.”

The Right Reverend Paul Ferguson
Chair of the York Diocesan Board of Education

What is a Foundation Governor and what do they do?

As a Foundation Governor you will be a representative of the Church of England on the school's Governing Body.

You will have a special role in, and responsibility for ensuring that:

- The Christian Character of the school is secured, preserved and developed; and
- The school is run in accordance with any trust deed relating to the school.

In order to carry out your special role effectively, you will need to:

- Understand and articulate the role of the Church in school, and the importance of the school's distinctively Christian character.
- Encourage and focus debate in key areas, including the school's Christian vision, collective worship and religious education (RE).
- Play an active role in key decisions e.g. the recruitment of headteachers and other key members of staff and headteacher appraisals.
- Support the school to ensure that there are effective and ongoing processes in place for Church school specific monitoring and evaluation.

- Work with the Parochial Church Council (PCC) and local parish church, the Incumbent (e.g the vicar) and other members of the Governing Body in upholding the school's Christian ethos, making sure that the school is distinctively Christian and strengthening and enriching the dynamic relationship between school, Church and the wider community.

In essence, you are there to help to secure that the school thrives as a Church of England school.

The key function of Foundation Governors is to “explore, with their partners on the Governing Body, ways in which the Church’s role in the school may be more fully and positively implemented.” (National Society, 1996)

...and don't forget the general Governor role!

At the same time, Foundation Governors have a responsibility to their school, their pupils and their communities to support their school to be effective in achieving and exceeding the standards expected by government. Foundation Governors, who will take on the full responsibilities of being a school governor (or local governor, as the case may be), will need to have the skills and otherwise be in a position to contribute appropriately to the Governing Body and the effective governance of the school.

Please note: the role of being a governor in a maintained school is different to being a local governor in an academy, and indeed the local governor role will look different in different academy Trusts due to the different delegations that are put in place between the Trust Board and the local governance tier. You should ensure that you understand what it looks like in your particular context.

The Government provides detailed guidance on the role of a Governor in its "Governance Handbook" - which can be found here.

Like all governors, Foundation Governors need to be committed to putting in the time necessary to be a school governor and undertake appropriate training on their role - including Diocesan and local authority training, and (in the academy context) training provided through the relevant Academy Trust.

How many other Foundation Governors will there be?

This will depend on the type of school you are supporting.

In Voluntary Controlled schools or Foundation schools, Foundation Governors will be in the minority on the Governing Body (there will generally be two or three Foundation Governors). In Voluntary Aided schools, Foundation Governors will be in the majority.

Your Governing Body composition will be outlined in the School's Instrument of Government (for maintained schools) or agreed local governing body composition (for academies). You can find the version that applies to your school on our website here (scroll down to find an alphabetised list).

How are Foundation Governors appointed?

Most Foundation Governors will be appointed by the York Diocesan Board of Education (YDBE), but are almost invariably identified by the Parochial Church Council (PCC)/other church body and school, working in partnership and drawing on their local knowledge. (In the case of an academy, the consent of the relevant Multi Academy Trust will also be obtained prior to confirming an appointment.)

On almost every Governing Body there will also be an "ex officio" Foundation Governor position. This will often be taken up by "the principal officiating minister" of the parish linked to the school (usually the vicar). For a number of reasons, not all vicars take up this role, and sometimes the principal officiating minister position is vacant. In such cases, the Archdeacon (often following a recommendation) will appoint a substitute governor, called a "temporary ex officio Foundation Governor." Whilst the YDBE is generally not the appointing body in such cases, the Diocesan Education Team manages the appointment process.

There are some instances where other individuals/bodies have recommending/consultee/appointing roles. The Diocesan Education Team will co-ordinate these appointments for the most part.

In general, Foundation Governors will have a link with the local Church of England church. They might serve on the PCC, lead/support worship or other church activities or be a regular attender at worship. Whilst many Foundation Governors are actively involved in their local Anglican/Christian Church communities, it is not always possible to find individuals that fit this profile to fill all Foundation Governor positions, and there are individuals who don't fit this profile who make excellent Foundation Governors. Further guidance can be found here (which also gives guidance in relation to parents and members of staff becoming Foundation Governors).

How long will I be a Foundation Governor for?

Foundation Governors are generally appointed for four-year terms, although in the case of a temporary ex officio Foundation Governor, the term of office will come to an end in the event that the person entitled to take on the ex officio role (as the relevant principal officiating minister) decides to take on the role themselves. Many Foundation Governors go on to be appointed for further four-year terms.

Distinctiveness

Whilst every school is distinctive and different in some ways, the question of distinctiveness and what this looks like is frequently asked with reference to Church of England schools. A good place to start is with the ethos statement, which applies to all Church of England schools:

ETHOS STATEMENT

“Recognising its historic foundation, our school will preserve and develop its religious character in accordance with the principles of the Church of England and in partnership with the Church at parish and diocesan level.

Our school aims to serve the community by providing an education of the highest quality within the context of Christian belief and practice. It encourages an understanding of the meaning and significance of faith, and promotes Christian values through the experience it offers to all pupils.”

The school should be an inclusive place of distinctive excellence, providing an education of the highest quality within the context of Christian belief and practice. It should work to meet the needs of the most vulnerable and be a place where all are valued as individuals and as God’s children. It should be true to the historic roots of the Church in education, serving its local community, welcoming Christian families and those of other faiths and none.

Here are some examples of how Church schools are distinctive:

Distinctively Christian Vision and ethos

Every Church of England school needs its own, theologically rooted, Christian vision, specific to its own context. The school's vision, developed in the wider context of both the Diocesan and the Church of England’s vision for schools, should inform everything that happens in the school, enabling both children and adults to flourish. For example, it should:

- Shape school development plans and policies.
- Shape a curriculum and extra-curricular offer that enables pupils to flourish.
- Be expressed through collective worship.
- Create a culture in which children and adults are treated well.
- Create an active culture of justice and responsibility.
- Be lived out in relationships and partnerships with key stakeholders.

Church, Diocesan and Community links

The school should have effective links with the local Church, Diocese and local community.

Collective Worship

Church schools must provide a daily act of collective worship for all pupils which is distinctively Christian and Anglican in character. Collective worship should be inclusive, invitational and inspiring, and should be an expression of the school's Christian vision.

Religious Education

Special importance should be given to the study of high quality, non-confessional religious education (RE), with RE being an important part of the school's distinctive curriculum and a core subject. It should enable pupils to know about and understand Christianity as a living and diverse world faith and develop a knowledge and understanding of other major world religions and world views. It should enable pupils to reflect on their own religious, spiritual and philosophical convictions.

Spiritual, Moral, Social and Cultural (SMSC) development

SMSC development is a key focus in Church of England schools.

SIAMS Inspections

All Church of England schools are inspected under the Statutory Inspection of Anglican and Methodist Schools (SIAMS) framework. This denominational inspection is in addition to the Ofsted inspection that all schools will receive.

Purpose

The purpose of the inspection is to:

- Make a significant contribution to the improvement of church schools.
- Meet the requirements of section 48 of the Education Act 2005 for schools which have a religious character: Church schools must have an inspection of collective worship, RE, and social, moral, spiritual and cultural education (SMSC). It is a statutory part of the work of the Church in education and is funded by the Department for Education.

Inspections under this Framework will enable judgements to be made on religious education (RE), collective worship and spiritual, moral, social and cultural (SMSC) education. It will also enable evaluation of how schools, through their theologically rooted Christian vision, are living up to their Church school foundation, enabling people to flourish.

Inspection questions

In all schools, the inspector will consider the following specific Inspection questions:

1. How does the school's theologically rooted Christian vision enable pupils and adults to flourish?
2. How does the curriculum reflect the school's theologically rooted Christian vision?
3. How is collective worship enabling pupils and adults to flourish spiritually?
4. How does the school's theologically rooted Christian vision create a culture in which pupils and adults are treated well?
5. How does the school's theologically rooted Christian vision create an active culture of justice and responsibility?
6. Is the religious education curriculum effective (with reference to the expectations set out in the Church of England's Statement of Entitlement for Religious Education)?

In the case of a Voluntary Aided (VA) maintained school, an academy that was formerly a VA school and in a small number of academies that were formerly Voluntary Controlled (VC) schools where (contrary to the usual position in a VC school/formerly VC school) denominational religious education is required to be taught, the inspector will also consider the following additional Inspection Question:

7. What is the quality of religious education in Voluntary Aided and former Voluntary Aided schools, and in former Voluntary Controlled schools in which denominational religious education is taught?

Judgements

Unlike under the previous inspection schedule, the school does not receive a grade following inspection. Instead, having evaluated the evidence made available under the Inspection Questions, the inspector will award the school one of the two following judgements:

- Judgement 1 ("J1") – The inspection findings indicate that the school is living up to its foundation as a Church school, and is enabling pupils and adults to flourish.
- Judgement 2 ("J2") – The inspection findings indicate that the school has strengths, but that there are also issues that leaders need to address as a matter of priority.

The inspector will issue a formal report following the inspection, including the areas for development.

Key Differences

There are a number of structural differences between Church and non-Church schools, reflecting the need to protect a Church of England school's Christian foundation. There are also a number of differences between different types of Church of England school.

Most Church of England schools in the Diocese of York continue to be maintained by the Local Authority, however there are a growing number of academies. There are also different types of maintained Church of England schools and the protections look different across the various school types.

It is important that you understand the status of your school and the relevance this has for the Christian foundation for your school.

Understanding the differences

(a) Maintained schools

Maintained Church schools are often described as “local authority schools” and are served by a single Governing Body. They fall into one of the following categories and each status brings notable structural differences:

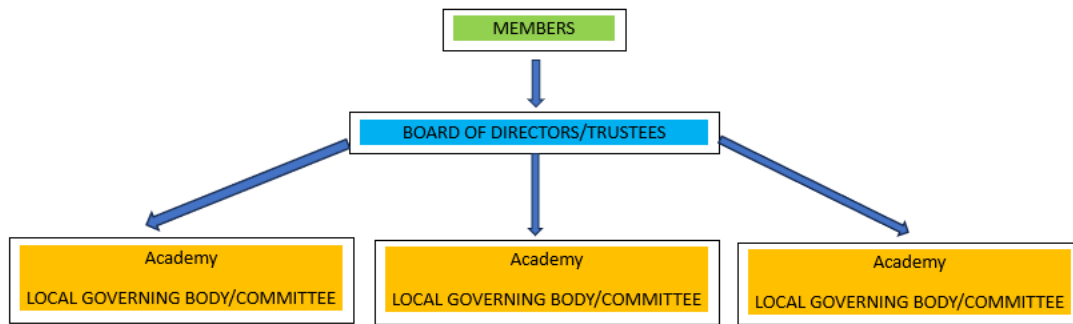

- Voluntary Aided schools ("VA")
- Voluntary Controlled schools ("VC") or
- Foundation schools.

In maintained schools, these key protections are provided for in legislation.

If you are a Foundation Governor in a maintained school, and are unsure whether your school is a VA, VC or a Foundation school, you can check your Instrument of Government by clicking here (scroll down to see the alphabetised schools list).

(b) Academies

Academies are independent schools run by a multi academy trust (Trust). The Trust Board of Directors/Trustees is the legal governing body, which is overseen by the Members of the Trust. A number of governance responsibilities will also be delegated to a Local Governing Body/Committee (LGB) for each school.

The characteristics of a Church of England academy will depend on their former status (VA, VC or Foundation) and the route by which they became an academy (e.g. there are a very small number of academies that were formerly VC schools with characteristics more akin to a VA school where the school was sponsored in a particular way at the time of conversion).

For academies, the key Church school protections are provided for within the governance and contractual framework for the Trust, including the Articles of Association that govern the Trust company’s operation, the Funding Agreements the Trust enters with the Department for Education and the ancillary agreements the Trust enters into with the Diocese.

Key differences

A document summarising the key differences between the different types of Church schools (including academies), and a comparison with non-Church schools can be found overleaf.

Note: If you serve on a Governing Body which oversees multiple schools, please note that the schools may have a different status/characteristics.

In an academy context, the academy/Trust should be in a position to advise you where there are any changes from the "usual" position due to the academy's history, however please do get in touch if you have any questions.

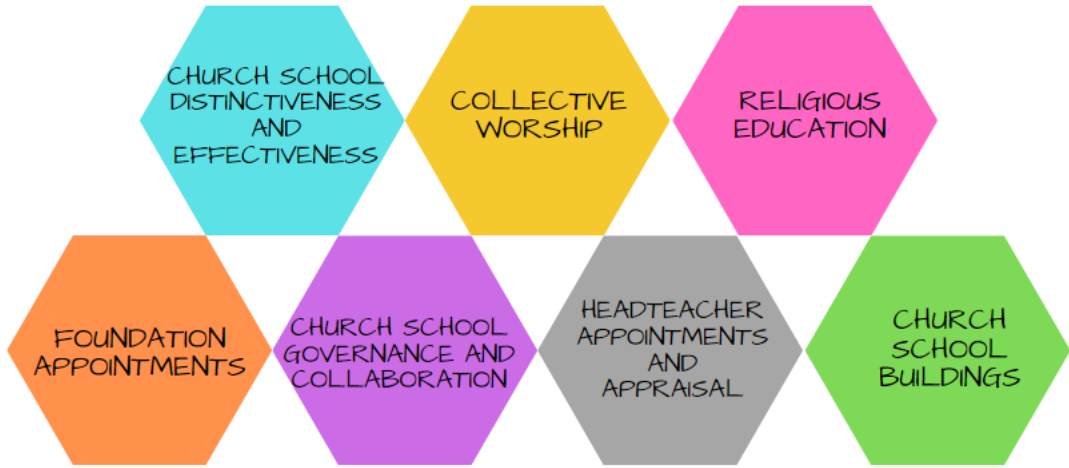

Summary of some key differences between school types (This is based on the “usual” situation: the actual position may vary as between schools.)

Being a Foundation Governor is not something for you to do alone – there will be other Foundation Governors alongside you on the Governing Body and, whilst you have a particular responsibility for this, the effectiveness of the school as a Church school is a whole Governing Body responsibility. We at the Diocese are also here to help you.

There is a wealth of experience in the Diocesan Education Team in a number of areas, including e.g.

Please get in touch with us if you require any support. You can “meet the team” here.

Keeping in Touch!

Here are some of the ways in which we can support you in your role:

Service Level Agreement

The school should have signed up to the Diocese’s Service Level Agreement (SLA) which is aimed at helping the school to develop its Church of England ethos. Under the SLA the school will have its own link adviser who will provide support for the school leaders and governors, including making specific visits. A copy of the current version of the SLA can be found here.

We would advise Foundation Governors to explore what support they might receive under the SLA.

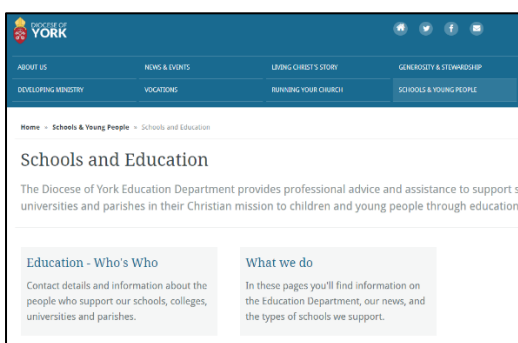

Training and Events

There is a lot that you will need to know as a Governor. You won't know everything straight away and you will grow in knowledge and confidence over time. We'd encourage you to take as much advantage as possible of the training opportunities available to you, including those within the Diocese and those provided by third parties. A number of Local Authorities put on full training programmes for new Governors: Governors are strongly urged to take advantage of these. In the academy context, there will frequently be a Trust specific training programme.

The Diocese provides a number of training opportunities linked to the distinctiveness and effectiveness of your school as a Church school. The remaining training and events for the current academic year can be found here. We would expect all Foundation Governors to complete the YDBE's introductory/refresher training on Effective Governance in a CE school as a minimum: this can be done as part of a live online training session or a self-led online module at a time to suit you.

Guidance and Advice

We provide guidance and advice in a number of areas, all of which are important in terms of protecting the Church of England foundation of Church schools.

Explore the website pages here, which include information on the following: admissions, academies, church school distinctiveness, collective worship, confederations, federations, headteacher recruitment and religious education to name but a few.

Specific times to get in contact

Whilst this is not an exhaustive list, we've set out below a brief checklist of some of the key times when Foundation Governors/an appropriate representative from the Governing Body should get in touch with us. In many of the instances below, we will need to be involved and give specific guidance/advice/consent/approval.

- A Foundation Governor resigns or is intending to leave at the end of their term of office.
- A change is proposed to the composition of the Governing Body.
- A vacancy for a Head of School/Headteacher/Executive Principal (or similar) is anticipated.
- The school is considering entering into structural arrangements (e.g. shared headteacher, federation, joint company/trust arrangements) with other schools and/or converting to an academy.
- The Governing Body/Trust is considering changing your school's admissions policy.
- There are plans to alter or extend school buildings.
- There is a serious issue relating to the school/governance of the school or the conduct of a Foundation Governor.

If in doubt, please get in touch!

Thank you for taking the time to read this guidance and for the support you provide to the young people and others in schools across the Diocese.
